Precyse and HealthStream Showcase Comprehensive ICD-10 Education Program at HIMSS 2013

Nearly 3,000 healthcare organizations nationwide are using Precyse University to prepare for ICD-10

WAYNE, Pa., and ALPHARETTA, Ga., March 4, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Precyse, a leader in health information management (HIM) technologies and services, will showcase its comprehensive ICD-10 Education Solution at the HIMSS 2013 Annual Conference & Exhibition March 3-7 at the Ernest N. Morial Convention Center in New Orleans (Booth #4369). Visitors to the Precyse booth will have the opportunity to get more information about Precyse University, the most innovative and complete on-site, online and mobile healthcare education solution that is designed to prepare coders, physicians, nurses, case managers, administrative staff and all other impacted populations for the transition to ICD-10. The Precyse University ICD-10 Solution is made available through Precyse's partner, HealthStream (NASDAQ: HSTM), via its market-leading platform and, specifically, through its HealthStream Learning Center™ application. Representatives from Precyse and HealthStream will provide solution demonstrations of Precyse University and its innovative applications, arcade and simulators during HIMSS.

"Healthcare organizations nationwide are discovering the benefits of Precyse University, and the number of facilities that use Precyse University for ICD-10 has grown from 1,000 to nearly 3,000, educating more than 750,000 learners in the past year," said Thomas Ormondroyd, Vice President and General Manager of Precyse Learning Solutions. Precyse was also recognized in the recent KLAS report, "ICD-10 Consulting: Roadmap to a Successful Transition," as the "only firm in this report to receive 100% positive comments from their clients about their ICD-10 services."¹

As a sponsor of the HIMSS ICD-10 Knowledge Center, Precyse will give a presentation titled "Unlocking Enterprise-wide ICD-10 Success," which will provide more guidance on ICD-10 training and education. This will be held Tuesday, March 5, 2013, at 11:15 a.m. in Booth #4351.

"Precyse has helped us identify the different levels and types of education needed for our entire staff, including our clinicians and doctors, helping us to understand the full breath of impact and to plan accordingly," said Sonia Trepnia, ICD-10 Program Manager, Duke University Health System. "Our staff needed ICD-10 education that was easily accessible."
